II.

III. Yemen: "army" numbers about 26,000 men scattered throughout the country in small garrisons.

A. It is not a modern force, but is receiving instruction in new Soviet-bloc and Egyptian weapons (including artillery) from Soviet, Czech, Egyptian and Syrian officers.

B. Yemeni irregulars available for action probably number about 80-100,000.

C. Yemen has no air force, but has recently received at least 20 Soviet 37mm anti-aircraft guns.

IV. Saudi Arabia: army numbers about 13,500 regulars, augmented by 8-10,000 special tribal troops of the "white army" who serve the king.

A. Saudi forces are poorly trained and led, and are scattered throughout the country. One 2,400 man unit is stationed in Jordan.

B. The Saudi air force includes five Vampire jet fighters and eight B-26 piston light bombers. It is most doubtful that these are available for combat operations.
